BY THE DUTCH BATAVIA ARRACK

Batavia Arrack is distillate based on 100% sugarcane molasses. It is produced exclusively on the island of Java in Indonesia. Fun fact is that small amount of local red rice has been used in fermentation process. Batavia Arrack is blended and stored in Amsterdam. It is comprised of a very specific range of Pot still distillates. The distillation is carried out using very traditional Pot stills, adopting ancient Chinese distillers' methods. The addition of local (red) rice sets Batavia Arrack apart from Rum, although the base material is still sugar cane. It has aged up to 8 years in oak barrels.

Tasting notes:

Rich, deep and lingering flavours. It has a dry and spicy flavour of oak with mild touches of sweetness.
